1. Andi Saddles Up. Andi Carter has just turned nine. She and her palomino filly, Taffy, are old enough to be a real horse-and-ride pair at last! With a beautiful new saddle and a new friend, Sadie, Andi hopes to have loads of fun at her special spot. However, a boundary squabble threatens both families, and Andi and Sadie are caught in the middle.

2. Andi Under the Big Top. The circus has come to town! Andi can't wait to see the elephants, the acrobats, and most of all the champion bareback rider. Then she meets young Henry, who sells candy under the big top. How lucky he is to live with the circus. But all is not fun and games. He's a runaway and trapped. How can Andi help?

3. Andi Lassos Trouble. The Circle C is hosting a rodeo! Dozens of cowboys are eager to prove they're the best at calf roping and bronc riding. Andi aims to lasso her way into the competition for kids, but before Andi can prove she's got what it takes to be a real cowgirl, the day turns dangerous. Will a friendly rodeo turn into a range war between ranches and sheepherders?

4. Andi to the Rescue. It's embarrassing to have your mother as the substitute teacher, but embarrassment is the least of Andi's worries when two outlaws kidnap Mother in a case of mistaken identity. Andi is brought along unwillingly, but neither she nor Mother can tell the outlaws they made a big mistake. Now they're stuck in a remote cabin teaching the boss outlaw how to read. Andi must sneak away and find help.

5. Andi Dreams of Gold. Andi and her friend Cory are delighted to hear about a gold strike in nearby Coursegold. Maybe gold can be found on the ranch too. Together, they set off on an adventure into the foothills to strike it rich. Then, just as they are having success, a sudden storm, a missing horse, and being lost in the woods combine to give Andi and Cory a frightening time.

6. Andi Far from Home. Scarlet fever has broken out in the valley, so Mother sends Andi to the safety of Aunt Rebecca in San Francisco. The noisy city and Aunt Rebecca's bossy ways may be worse than catching scarlet fever. But then Andi has an idea that might help her friends back home.

Andi Saddles Up: Chapters 1-3

Answer the questions about what you have read.

Chapter 1: Birthday Wish

1. The setting of a story is “where” and “when” the story takes place.

Where does Andi Saddles Up take place? _____

When does Andi Saddles Up take place? _____

2. Andi is excited. Why? _____

3. How long has Andi waited to finally become “horse and rider”? _____

4. Who joins Andi in the barn? A. Justin B. Chad C. Mother D. Mitch

5. Circle the names of everyone who has used Coco’s old saddle in the past:

Mother • Chad • Andi • Father • Justin • Sid • Mitch • Melinda

6. What does Andi want for her birthday? _____

Chapter 2: Birthday Interruption

7. Andi’s birthday breakfast is _____ and _____

8. What is your favorite breakfast? _____

9. Draw one of Andi’s birthday presents:

10. What language (besides English) does Andi speak?

11. Who barges in and interrupts Andi’s birthday breakfast?

Chapter 3: Horse and Rider

12. Why is Andi’s face white? _____

13. What surprise does Andi find outside? _____

14. Where does Chad take Andi?

A. to town

B. to the cattle herd

C. to a special spot by a creek

15. True or false? (circle one) Taffy is already an excellent cow pony.

16. Think: What question do you think Andi wants to ask Chad at the end of chapter 3?

Vocabulary Words Chapters 1-3

Part 1: Draw a line between the words and their meanings. (See pages 7 & 8 in the book.)

alfalfa

- a golden-colored horse with a white or cream-colored mane and tail

ranch hand

- the best kind of hay for horses and cattle

palomino

- equipment used on horses: saddles, stirrups, bridles, halters, and reins

tack

filly

cinch (verb)

saddle broke

tack up

- someone who works for the owner of a ranch; also called a "cowhand"
- a horse that has been trained to carry a rider
- to prepare a horse for riding with saddle, reins, and other tack
- a young, female horse
- to fasten tightly

Part 2: Each underlined word below comes from chapters 1-3 and is used in a sentence from the story. Circle the best meaning for each underlined word.

1. "Don't pay Mr. Hollister any mind," Chad said. "He's just full of bluster."

Bluster means . . . an outward show of pretend temper • an apology

2. Andi had ridden Taffy bareback plenty of times during the past year.

Bareback means . . . without a saddle • without the reins • without a bridle

3. Taffy was too pretty to lug around a shabby piece of leather on her golden back.

Lug means . . . to throw • to carry • to draw

4. Mr. Hollister scooped his raggedy hat off the floor and plunked it down on his head.

Raggedy means . . . brand new • colorful • old and torn

5. Andi bit back a sassy reply before it sneaked out.

Sassy means . . . polite • disrespectful • teasing

6. Thoughts of scary Mr. Hollister vanished.

Vanished means . . . disappeared • ran away • kept coming back

Andi Saddles Up: Taffy's New Saddle

In chapter 3, Andi gets a birthday surprise—a new saddle. Below is Taffy and her new saddle. The saddle is missing its star designs and silver conchos. Do these things:

1. Decorate the saddle (see page 28 in the book if you need help), then color Taffy. She is a palomino with white socks and a white blaze on her nose.
2. Tack is equipment used on horses: saddle, stirrups, bridle, reins, cinch, bit, and saddle blanket. The cinch and saddle blanket are missing. Draw them.. Color.
3. Draw lines from the tack pieces listed below to where you see them on Taffy.

BRIDLE

STIRRUPS

Decorate Your Saddle

Taffy's saddle is decorated with hand-tooled stars and silver conchos. What would your favorite saddle look like? Here's your chance to design a saddle just how you would like it.

Name Your Horse

If you had a horse of your own, what would you name him or her? Or, if you already have a horse or a pony, what is their name?

Andi Saddles Up: Poetry

Andi is learning poetry at school. What is poetry? It is a kind of literature that often uses rhyming words and a beat to make the words flow smoothly. The simplest form of poetry is like Andi's poem in chapter 1: "Today is the day. How I love the month of May." Another is "Rain, rain, go away. Come again another day" or "Twinkle, twinkle, litter star, God has made you what you are." The only rule for this two-line kind of poem is that the last word in each line must rhyme. Most hymns in church follow this kind of poetry rule: "Jesus loves me, this I know. For the Bible tells me so."

1. Look on page 10 of Andi Saddles Up. Copy another rhyming poem that Andi told Taffy. Circle the two words that rhyme.

_____ (line 1)
_____ (line 2)

Try it!

Using the examples above, write your own two-line poem that rhymes.

_____ (line 1)
_____ (line 2)

Cinquain

There are many types of poetry. Some poems do not even rhyme. A poem may have only five words. Other poems, called "ballads," go on and on for pages! One interesting kind of poem is a "cinquain." It has five lines, and each line has a rule.

- Line 1: one word, the subject of the poem
- Line 2: two words that describe the subject
- Line 3: three words (often "ing" words)
- Line 4: four words that describe the subject more
- Line 5: another word for the subject

Cat
Claws, whiskers
Purring, meowing, scratching
Pounces on a mouse
Hunter

Let's Write Cinquains

Here is another example of a cinquain. It follows the rules for this kind of poem (the exact number of words for each line).

In the boxes below, write two cinquains about any person, place, thing, or animal. Have fun! Look back on page 10 for the rules.

Creek
Swift, deep
Rushing, bubbling, gurgling
Splashes over the rocks
Brook

Andi Saddles Up: Chapters 4-6

Answer the questions about what you have read.

Chapter 4: No Means No

1. What trick does Andi want to learn to do with Taffy?

A. ride Taffy with no hands B. stand up on Taffy's back C. lasso the calves

2. True or false? (circle one) Chad tells Andi that trick riding is too dangerous.

3. Andi gets mad at Chad. Later she is sorry for losing her temper. In her anger, she forgot three nice things Chad has done for her. What are they? (See page 35.)

4. Mother lets Chad make all of the ranch decisions. Circle the decisions that Chad gets to make for Andi: which horse she can ride • when Andi goes to bed

Andi's outside chores • when to train Taffy • where Andi can go to fish

5. Who helps Andi with her new saddle? A. Chad B. Justin C. Sid D. Mitch

Chapter 5: Special Spot

6. What kind of bait has Andi brought along to catch fish? _____

7. What does Andi do when she figures out the fish are not biting?

A. She goes home. B. She digs some fresh bait. C. She climbs a tree.

8. Why is the strange girl following the creek? _____

9. Andi learns that the man who barged into their home during breakfast is Sadie's

10. What trade does Sadie make with Andi? A. Sadie and Andi trade fishing poles.

B. Sadie trades doughballs for a ride on Taffy. C. Sadie and Andi trade horses.

Chapter 6: New Friend

11. What word does Andi spell wrong during the spelling bee? trowel • trouble • town

12. Circle the ingredients in Sadie's special doughball recipe:

milk • sugar • cheese • garlic • oil • flour • salt • cornmeal • honey

13. Name two animals that like the smell of fish stink: _____

14. Why doesn't Sadie like her own cats? _____

15. Which cat does Sadie choose to take home? _____

Vocabulary Words Chapters 4-6

Part 1: Fill in the correct word from the New Words on pages 7-8. Clues are given.

1. When Andi loosened the _____ and yanked, the leather seat came down. (the wide strap that goes under the horse's belly and holds the saddle in place)
2. When Andi closed her eyes, she saw trout snapping up _____ as fast as she dropped her hook into the water (a lump of dough used as bait for fishing)
3. Andi even forgot he'd told her she could ride Taffy out on the _____ by herself. (wide-open, natural grazing land for horses, cattle, and sheep)
4. "Caught me a _____ full of fish the other day," Sadie said. (a line that holds fish to keep them alive in water after being caught)
5. "Enough _____," the teacher scolded Andi. "It's your turn. Spell trowel." (daydreaming)

Part 2: Use the clues to fill out the crossword puzzle with words from chapters 4-6.

WORD BOX

risky apology licorice boundaries gripped whittle stammered

ACROSS:

4. a sweet, chewy black candy
6. held on tightly
7. spoke with a stutter

DOWN:

1. property lines
2. to carve into wood using little slices
3. something said to show you are sorry.
5. something full of danger

Andi Saddles Up: Characters

A story has a long list of characters. The main character is the most important character in a story. The other characters add interest to the story and help the main character solve his or her problem. Who is the main character in Andi Saddles Up? _____

Put together a digital puzzle of the two best friends: CircleCBooks.com/stepping-stones/

Who Said It?

We can learn about the characters in a story not only by what they do but also by what they say and how they say it. The characters in chapters 4-6 do a lot of talking. Can you figure out who says each of the sentences below? Use the word box for help. The names can be used more than once.

WORD BOX

Andi Miss Hall Melinda Luisa Mitch Chad Sadie

3. "This is the prettiest spot on the whole ranch." _____
4. "If you try any reckless stunts, you won't be riding Taffy at all." _____
5. "Enough woolgathering. It's your turn to spell." _____

12. "I tried dough balls once. They didn't work." _____
13. "You can't catch nothin' with those teensy things." _____
14. "I dug up these worms just for you. Don't you like them?" _____

Andi Saddles Up: Trout

Andi loves to fish! The fish she catches in the creeks of California are called rainbow trout. They are a freshwater, salmon-type fish that live in lakes and streams in the Pacific coast states of North America. Andi can spot a rainbow trout by the broad, red stripe from its gills to its tail. This stripe is especially bright on the adult male. Sadie was excited that the trout Andi caught was “three pounds at least.” Rainbow trout average between one and five pounds. If they don’t get caught and eaten, a rainbow trout can live up to eleven years.

Rainbow trout lay eggs in the early spring in shallow creeks with gravel bottoms. The female beats her tail to clear a spot and lays thousands of eggs. A male trout is nearby. He releases sperm to fertilize the eggs. All this time the female is busy beating her tail some more to cover the eggs with the fine gravel. The babies (fry) hatch in four to seven weeks. They eat microscopic plants and grow fast, turning into fingerlings (baby trout as long as your finger).

Rainbow trout will eat anything they can catch: insects (like ants, grasshoppers, and beetles that fall into the water), other fish eggs, and small fish. They will even eat rotting flesh from dead fish in the water.

What’s the best way for Andi to catch a rainbow trout? Its favorite food is salmon eggs. They like grasshoppers too if Andi wants to spear one on her hook when grasshopper season comes (in the fall). Since trout can taste and smell, anything that lures them to a fishing hook will work—and the smellier the better. Use your imagination, and the trout will probably bite. Sadie’s secret dough ball recipe is a winner. Here it is for modern fishermen. (Don’t eat these dough balls. They are for the trout.)

Sadie’s Secret Dough Ball Recipe

Melt 4 ounces of soft cheese (Velveeta is best) in the microwave. Mix the melted cheese with 2 cups water, 1 cup flour, 1 cup cornmeal, 1/2 cup sugar, and 2 tablespoons garlic powder. Add more flour or water to make a nice dough.

Fill a tall pan with water and bring it to a boil. Grab small pieces of the dough and roll into balls. Drop them into the boiling water for two minutes. Gently remove the dough balls with a slotted spoon (so the water drips back into the pan) and lay them on paper towels to dry. (If this is too much work, you can buy PowerBait. It’s the same thing.)

Andi Saddles Up: Trout Math

1. Andi brought home 15 trout for her family of 6. If everyone ate the same number of trout for supper, how many trout did each person in the family eat? _____
2. How many trout were left over?

3. The next day, Mitch told Andi to catch twice as many trout than she caught in problem #1. How many trout did Mitch tell Andi to catch? _____
4. A trout laid 3,445 eggs in the morning, 2,556 eggs later in the day, and 6,298 eggs at the end of the day. How many eggs did this trout lay in all? _____
5. 9,778 baby trout (fry) hatched. They soon grew as long as Andi's fingers (fingerlings). They swam as fast as they could, but 4,622 fingerlings got eaten by other fish. How many fingerlings lived long enough to become adult trout? _____

Work Space

Trout Maze

Follow the maze to help Andi catch a trout from her special spot.

Andi Saddles Up: Chapters 7-9

7. _____ dangled (p. 82)

G. rammed with its head; hit hard

8. _____ jim-dandy (p. 82)

H. very good; great

Alphabetical Order

Look at the eight vocabulary words above from chapters 7-9. Can you put them in alphabetical (ABC) order? If you are not sure what that means, keep reading. The alphabet is written in order from A to Z. It looks like this:

A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z

To put words in ABC order, look at the FIRST LETTER of each word. Then put the words in order with "A" coming first. Example: If you put zebra, cat, horse, dog, walrus in alphabetical order, they would look like this: cat, dog, horse, walrus, zebra. Now you try it with the eight vocabulary words above. The first word has been done for you.

Andi Saddles Up: Similes (not Smiles!)

It's fun to use word pictures in your writing. Some of these word pictures are called "similes." Similes are words that compare one thing with another like, "Her fingers felt as cold as ice cubes." We know fingers are not really ice cubes, but the sentence paints a picture in your mind of how cold somebody's fingers might be. It's a lot more fun than just saying, "Her fingers were very cold."

The words "like," "as," or "than" are used in similes. Each sentence below comes from chapters 7-9 in the book. For each sentence, do these things:

- 1) Circle "like," "as," or "than" to show the sentence is a simile.
- 2) Fill in the blanks to compare the given word (or words) to the word picture.
- 3) Draw the word picture.

1. The last week of school dragged by slower than a turtle race.

School is being compared to a _____

2. The lamb had fallen asleep and lay like a limp rag.

The lamb is being compare to a _____

3. Granny's face was creased with more wrinkles than a walnut.

Granny's face is being compared to a _____

4. "Pa is madder than a hornet," Sadie told Andi.

Pa is being compared to a _____

5. Andi knew Chad would be madder than a whole nest of hornets.

Chad is being compared to a _____

Your turn: Finish this simile with a word picture of your own. Draw it.

6. Tommy ran as fast as _____

Geography: Map of the Circle C Ranch

The map to the left shows the state of California. The little square shows where the Circle C ranch is located. The map below is a close-up view of a very small part of the ranch. The map is not to scale. This means that the distance between Andi's house and Sadie's place is much farther than it appears on the map.

Geography: Map of the Circle C Ranch

Andi lives in the state of California. California became a state in 1850, long before Andi or her sister or brothers were born. The Circle C ranch stretches for thousands of acres, from the San Joaquin Valley in the west to the Sierra Nevada foothills (mountains) in the east.

Directions are important for map reading. A symbol that looks like this is called a compass rose. A compass rose shows north, south, east, and west and helps you know which direction you are looking at a map so you can figure out where you are going.

1. Find the compass rose on the map. North has been labeled N. Label “S” for south, “W” for west, and “E” for east. Ask for help if you are not sure of your directions.
2. Using colored pencils, color Andi’s ranch house. Write “Circle C Ranch” below it.
3. Find the cabin up in the foothills. Label it “Hollister Place.” This is Sadie’s home.

Use the compass rose directions to find your way around on the map.

4. Andi’s special spot is straight north of her house and between two foothills. Draw a tree next to the creek to show that it is her special spot.
5. Label the creek that flows by Andi’s special spot “Big Dry Creek.”
6. The dotted line just south of Sadie’s house is the original course of Spring Creek (and the original boundary line between the Circle C ranch and the Hollister place). It is dry now. Draw some fence posts sticking up out of the creek bed.
7. The creek directly south of the old boundary line is the creek’s new course. Label this creek “Spring Creek.”
8. Between the old creek bed and Spring Creek’s new course lies a chunk of land. Color it light green. Label it “Disputed Land.” Disputed means “arguing over something.”
9. Think for yourself: The Carters and the Hollisters are arguing over who owns the two hundred acres. Where do you think the boundary should be? The original creek? Or Spring Creek’s new course? Why do you think so? _____

Andi Saddles Up: Chapters 10-12

Answer the questions about what you have read.

Chapter 10: The Accident

1. Circle the three things Andi and Mother want to pray about:

the Carters will win the boundary war • God will put the creek back everyone will get along • nobody will get shot • the Hollisters will move

2. True or false? When Sadie comes to the special spot, Andi tells her to go home.

3. Why is Andi angry? _____

4. What does Sadie offer to give back to Andi? _____

5. Andi asks Sadie to teach her something. What is it? _____

6. What is Andi afraid of?

A. falling off Taffy B. hitting a tree C. disobeying Mother D. disobeying Chad

Chapter 11: Painful Lesson

7. Where does Andi wake up the first time? under a tree • in the creek • on a horse

8. Where does Andi wake up the second time? in a bed • at home • under a tree

9. Who does Mr. Hollister send to find Andi's family? _____

10. Who splints Andi's arm? A. Sadie B. Mr. Hollister C. Mother D. Granny

11. Andi wants her mother. Who comes instead? _____

12. True or false? (circle one) Chad knows all about how Andi came to fall off her horse.

Chapter 12: Good Neighbors

13. Chad stays for coffee, but nobody is very friendly. Match what each person does.

Granny . . . says he has to get back to work.

Mrs. Hollister . . . goes outside.

Sadie . . . rocks in her rocking chair.

Zeke . . . gives everybody coffee.

Mr. Hollister . . . grabs coffee and sits by Andi.

14. What does Chad do that shocks and pleases the Hollisters? _____

15. Why does he do it? _____

16. True or false? (circle one) Andi tells the truth about why she fell off Taffy.

17. What is her punishment? _____

Job 39:19-21

Color the horses.

Character Counts: Obedience

Andi's family does not tell her she cannot learn to trick ride because they want to be mean and make Andi unhappy. Chad and Mother know how dangerous those kinds of stunts can sometimes be. They love Andi and don't want to see her get hurt or killed.

Andi learns the hard way how important it is to obey. Obeying parents, teachers, and others who have the rule over us protects us from danger and keeps us safe. Learning to obey also teaches us what it means to obey the most important Person of all: God. If we obey His words from the Bible, life will go a lot better for us than if we always demand our own way.

It hurts on the inside (and sometimes on the outside) to disobey, but pain helps us remember. Andi decides she will never again trick ride without permission. If the thought to give it another try does come to Andi's mind, the memory of her broken arm and her bumped head will probably remind her not to give in but to stand firm and obey.

Do you remember how Andi feels when she is just about to disobey? Circle how she feels:

her stomach turns over • her heart sings • her heart pounds • her legs wobble • smiley

Have you ever felt these feelings just before you disobeyed or were ready to do something else wrong, like tell a lie or sneak a cookie? (circle one) Yes • No

Think for yourself: Draw a picture of a time when you were ready to disobey (or do something else wrong). Under the picture write how you felt. Did your hands shake? Did your heart beat fast? Did your stomach hurt? If so, that is your conscience (your heart) warning you not to do wrong. Did you stand firm, or did you give in and disobey? This is how I felt: _____

Circle one: • I disobeyed (or did the wrong thing).
• I obeyed (or did the right thing).

What happened next? _____

Andi Saddles Up: A Broken Arm

Andi disobeyed and decided to try the stand-up trick on Taffy. At the last second, she changed her mind, but it was too late. She crashed into a tree and fell off Taffy. Not only did she bang her head and knock herself out, but she also broke her arm.

Look at the picture to the right. It shows the inside of an arm. Three long bones make up the arm. The upper bone is called the humerus. It is connected to the shoulder joint. At the elbow, the humerus connects with two thinner bones in the lower arm ("forearm"): the ulna and the radius. The radius is the bone on the thumb side of the arm. The ulna is the bone that sits on the pinkie finger side of the arm.

God's design is amazing! The humerus is a single, strong bone that can rotate at the shoulder joint. The ulna and the radius in the forearm can turn to give your hand and wrist side-to-side movement.

A group of eight wrist bones called the carpals lies just below the radius and the ulna. These tiny bones allow your wrist to move in many directions like waving good-bye. The metacarpals are the long hand bones. There are three phalanges for each finger (two for the thumb).

Which bone did Andi break when she fell off Taffy? The picture below shows an x-ray of an elbow, the two forearm bones, the wrist bones, the hand bones, and the finger bones. Andi broke her left arm. If there had been an x-ray machine in 1877, this is what Andi's broken arm would have looked like on the inside. Can you see the crack?

From what you learned from reading above, circle which bone Andi broke:

Andi Saddles Up: Healing a Broken Arm

Fortunately for Andi, her bone only cracked and did not break into two pieces. If it had, the healing process (especially in the 1800s) would have required more than Granny simply splinting and wrapping Andi's arm. A bone broken in two pieces would have to be set, which means pulling on the arm until the broken ends line up so they can grow back together. Ouch! That would hurt worse than Andi breaking her arm in the first place.

The kind of injury Andi received is called a "greenstick fracture." It is the kind of break many children experience. (Adults do not. Their arms would simply snap). It can be compared to trying to bend and break a wet (green) branch in half. Part of it breaks, but not clear through.

Granny splinted and wrapped Andi's arm. A splint is made from some kind of stiff material (flat lengths of wood in Andi's case) placed on either side of her arm. Bandages are then wrapped around the arm to keep the splints in place. This holds the arm bone in place so it can heal straight.

Children heal quickly from broken bones (four or five weeks). The older the person, the longer it usually takes for the bone to grow back together. Children grow fast. So do their bones. Once Andi's bone heals, it will be just as strong as it was before her accident. The same bone is not more or less likely to break again.

Color the Bones

Do you remember the names of the bones of your arm, wrist, and hand? Using colored pencils, color the different bones. You may look on the previous page to refresh your memory. When you are finished, put a black "X" where Andi broke her arm.

HUMERUS: green

PHALANGES: orange

ULNA: red

RADIUS: blue

METACARPALS: purple

CARPALS: yellow

History Fun: Sheep and Cattle Wars

Read the facts below. If the fact on the sheep or cow is true, color it. If it is not true, cross it out with a big X.

Cattle

~~The cattlemen and sheepherders fought for over one hundred years.~~

The arguments broke out because of something called "open range."

In the 1800s, cattlemen were the kings of the West.

Sheep

~~Ranchers never raised sheep and cattle together.~~

Sheep can eat the grass until the land is stripped bare.

~~Sheepherders always started the range wars.~~
